

Service lines can fail and disrupt business operations

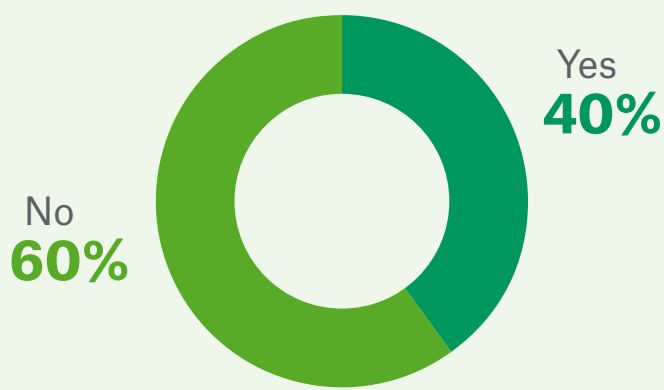

Business owners are responsible for repairing service lines on their property.

Service lines bring essential services to a building:

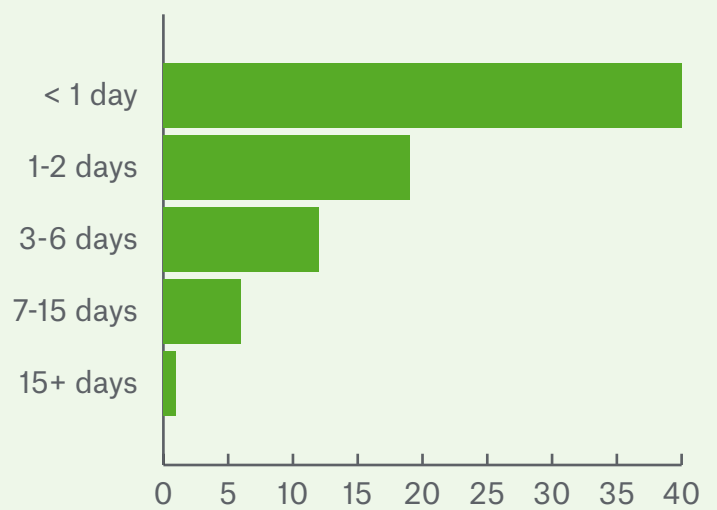

- water & sewage
- electricity & gas
- communications

2 in 5 commercial building owners had a service line failure in the past 5 years and business interruptions lasted up to 15+ days***

Q: In the past 5 years, have you experienced any commercial service line breaks outside of your property, but inside the property line?

Q: How long, in days, was your business interrupted by the event?

Only 22 percent of building owners thought they were responsible to pay for service line failures

Q: Who do you think is responsible for paying for a commercial service line break within your property lines?
